and I'm not going to vote for anything unless the bill is explained.

PRESIDENT: I don't think that is out of order, Senator Clark. Senator Keyes, are you here to explain the bill?

SENATOR KEYES: A question of the Chair. A question of the Chair. If the Legislature votes to accept an amendment, how then can we bring it back and have the introducer of the amendment withdraw without a vote of the Legislature?

PRESIDENT: He didn't with...He didn't withdraw the amendment. He just waved his arms and I guessed that means he didn't want to have a vote on it then.

SENATOR KEYES: Then the amendment is still on the bill.

PRESIDENT: It is still on the floor. Senator Johnson now moves the adoption of the Goodrich-Johnson amendment. Senator Koch.

SENATOR KOCH: A question of the President, please.

PRESIDENT: Yes sir.

SENATOR KOCH: Who have we taken out of the bill and who have we placed into the bill, thus far.

PRESIDENT: Well, so far, we took out the chiropractors...

SENATOR KOCH: Chiropractors.

PRESIDENT: ...and the podiatrists are in serious trouble, and they haven't mentioned the lawyers yet.

SENATOR KOCH: I was going to do that.

PRESIDENT: Senator Burrows.

SENATOR BURROWS: Mr. President, could I take this opportunity to explain the basic intent of the bill as introduced, very briefly.

PRESIDENT: We've got a Johnson motion to add "chiropractors" or "podiatrists" to the bill.

SENATOR BURROWS: OK.

PRESIDENT: If we sit here much longer, we will all need proctologists. This is all fun but we had better get...the simple question right now, and the Chair would like to suggest that we dispose of the Johnson amendment, one way or another, and then, perhaps, Senator Burrows could explain the bill. The question is, shall the Johnson-Goodrich amendment to the bill be adopted. That amendment provides for the addition of podiatrists to the list of people mentioned in the bill. Record your vote. Have you voted? Record.

CLERK: 13 ayes, 24 nays, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT: The motion fails. Now we have a motion by Senator Marsh to advance the bill. Senator Burrows.

CLERK: Mr. President, I still have some more motions.

PRESIDENT: Wonderful. Read that.
